Morningstar Investment Management LLC Analysis

This wide-ranging high yield fund, which at times invests in emerging markets and foreign currencies, has endured very poor performance in recent years. As of March 31, 2020, the fund's trailing one-, three-, and five-year returns all fall in the category's bottom decile. Moreover, the fund's longtime portfolio manager and AB CIO Doug Peebles will be retiring in January of 2021. This comes on the heels of Paul DeNoon's (another longtime portfolio manager) late 2019 retirement. While the team seems to retain ample experience and stability, these personnel changes add to the concerns about this fund's risk-taking and performance. We are placing the fund on watch until further notice.
