Morningstar Investment Management LLC Analysis

We are removing ClearBridge Mid Cap from fiduciary coverage due to subpar stock selection and prolonged underperformance. Brian Angerame, who has been a comanager since 2005, has historically focused on building a portfolio of quality companies that have sustainable competitive advantages and healthy balance sheets, with a slight tilt towards growth. In 2020, Angerame and his newly promoted comanager Matthew Lilling saw an opportunity to pick up a few lower-quality names that had been oversold due to the pandemic. Since then, the portfolio has exhibited somewhat lower net margin and ROIC metrics relative to its history and its Russell Mid Cap benchmark. While this shift resulted in solid returns in 2020 and 2021, the fund notably underperformed when markets tumbled in 2022 and in early 2025. The managers also had some poor stock picks over the years in healthcare, and to a lesser extent, in industrials. Over the trailing one-, three-, and five-year periods, the fund's performance has landed in its category's bottom quintile through December 2025.

As a result of its challenges, we no longer have conviction in the team's ability to reliably select stocks to boost performance. We are removing the fund from fiduciary coverage.
